PRESIDENT GIVES SPEECH IN PERSON

Tax Revision Is Chief Issue Before Congress Belief Of Observers

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Falling gavels in both senate and house promptly on the stroke of noon sent the 73rd congress away today on its first and probably its last regular session.

With a record of accomplishment already behind it in the special session last spring that framed the recovery program, the session that began today has for its principal work tax revision and coordination of the various aspects of "The New Deal."

Crowded galleries in both houses witnessed today's getaway under the anticipatory thrill of President Roosevelt's first personal appearance before a joint session.

Breaks precedent. From time immemorial it has been the custom for congress to convene and then send committees to the White House to formally apprise the executive that the national legislature is in session and ready to do business.

The president decided to dispense with this congressional pilgrimage today, and he accepted his notice by telephone. It was arranged that the

PA NEW OBSERVES

New Jersey comes forward with 1934 license plates that not only can be seen but almost heard. The plates are black with bright pea green numbers.

The South Mill street bridge won't be much for looks until later, when the weather will permit the completion of the paint job.

This may be just another story. Anyway, it is said that two chaps who had been celebrating something or other, were attracted by a large 5 percent sign in front of a savings and loan office. They walked right in and ordered "two bottles, please."

Pa New thought he was seeing strange things yesterday, and he was, but it was nothing out of order. "Doc" McBride, superintendent of the Crawford-Oakridge home, was going up Mill street with a deer over the running board of his car. It was one which had been illegally killed and had been turned over to the home by Game Warden Coen. Mr. McBride was taking it to a local butcher to be skinned and dressed for the children at the home.

A local motorist was displaying one of her license plates illegally yesterday. It had been affixed to the bracket in front so that the first and last numerals were obscured by the arms of the bracket.

People who were downtown late last night had visions of another big fire as fire trucks drove through the alleys and side streets on South Mercer street, below Washington.

Homeless persons found on railroad property and state highways in Lawrence county will be sent to a federal concentration camp in Allegheny county, it was learned here today, a state policeman yesterday having presented to the State Board of Relief officials for this county a notice telling them where wayfarers should be sent.

The persons themselves can make applications, it is understood. In case the persons do not hold a residence in Pennsylvania it is reported that plans for sending them to their home state will be made.

State Balance Shows Increase

Pennsylvania Starts Year With General Fund Balance Of $31,062,559

BOND ISSUE SALE GIVES LARGE BOOST

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Jan. 3.—The commonwealth began the year 1934 with a balance in its general fund of $31,062,559, according to the monthly report of State Treasurer Charles A. Waters today.

Boosted by the sale of $25,000,000 in bonds for emergency relief and state welfare and educational institutions, the balance was more than three times that of November, 1933, when it was $9,284,182 and six times the $4,889,832 figure for the end of 1932.

The grand total of all funds in the treasury at the end of the year was $66,622, 934. Receipts during December, including the bond issue, were $56,826,667 and expenditures $23,089,566.

Two new funds made their first appearance in the balance sheet. The state stores fund, representing the $10 filing fee with applications for retail liquor licenses, was $47,490. Profits from state stores will be added to this fund. The liquor license fund, which is to be distributed to municipalities quarterly, totaled $1,305,650.

Forced To Make Confession Says Greenville Man

Joe Spano, And Two Young Women Held At Mercer County Jail

UNUSUAL STORY TOLD TO POLICE

Aftermath Of Robbery Of Bank At Fredonia Some Months Ago

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Pa., Jan. 3.—Joe Spano, 25, a Greenville Italian; and Rose and Constance Ferruccio, of Canton, O., are being held in the Mercer jail today following an alleged "forced confession" of Spano that he had been implicated in the robbery of the Fredonia National Bank on October 15, 1933. The robbers cleaned out $4126.30 and escaped at the time but two of them have since been sentenced.

The two sentenced are Angelo Ferruccio known as Canton, Ohio's "Public Enemy Number 1", age 29 and his young brother Patsy, 16, who was sentenced Tuesday. Angelo got from 9 to 18 years in the Western Penitentiary and Patsy got from 5 to 10.

Queer Story. The confession of Spano came at two o'clock this morning under peculiar conditions. At that time Corporal James Brooks of the Mercer Barracks was awakened by a knock on the door. Answering it he found Rose Ferruccio, 21, and

Just the make of the skin that covers the ball beat Stanford. If instead of pig skin the ball had been covered with porcupine hide (with the quills on), maybe Stanford could have held onto it.

But the game was in keeping with everything else that happened in sports, government and economics the past year. The experts were wrong again.

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—With a net gain of seven votes in the house and no change in the huge majority they have in the senate the Democrats today were more firmly entrenched in congress than in the special session last March. Will Drill For Oil In Eastern Part Of County

Oil Rigging Is Being Erected To Sink Well On The Munnell Farm

For the first time in many years drilling for oil will be attempted in Lawrence county when a group of Beaver county oil men will drill on the Scott Munnell farm in Slippery Rock township. The rigging is being erected and drilling is expected to get under way within a week. The men expect to go down about 5,000 feet before hitting the oil sand.

Some years ago a fine grade of amber oil was struck beyond this district, and shortly after the Civil War there were many wells in the Slippery Rock valley. One well in particular was a good producer, but in an effort to enlarge the pool the driller blew the bottom out of it and the oil disappeared.

Major L. W. Fagg Inspects Troop

Compliments Officers And Men For Good Showing Made Under Conditions

ANNUAL FEDERAL INSPECTION HELD

Major L. W. Fagg, United States infantry, conducted the annual federal inspection of Troop F, 103rd cavalry, in the armory here last evening, complimenting the officers and men on the splendid condition in which he found them.

At the conclusion of the inspection he addressed the troop briefly, and stated that he felt their drill work had been most commendable considering the inadequate conditions under which they were forced to labor at the present armory site.

Although they have had but a few weeks of indoor drill, the troop presented a natty appearance and went through the various drill formations in a snappy manner.

Major Fagg came here from Grove City, where he is at present attached to the 112th infantry. During the afternoon he inspected the stables and surroundings in Scotland Lane.

Captain Harvey G. Bintrun announced after inspection that there would be no further drill sessions this week. The next activity of the troop will be the non-commissioned officers school on next Monday evening, followed by regular drill on January 12.

Three new men will be enlisted in the near future, to replace three men who have been lost through moving from the city, which will bring the unit to full strength. The new men should be well broken in by the annual encampment period next summer.

PRESIDENT TELLS CONGRESS NATION ON RECOVERY ROAD

Roosevelt Gives Accounting Of Recovery Moves To Congress Session

MUST CONTINUE ON PROGRAM BEGUN

Recovery Moves To Be Knitted Together; No Recommendations Yet Made

International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—In a friendly, intimate message, far different from the usual type of executive communications: President Roosevelt reported to congress today that the nation has travelled far along the road to national recovery, and that what is now most needed is to consolidate the gains already made.

He summed it all up near the end of his address, which was delivered in person to a crowded joint session of senate and house, in these words: "We have ploughed the good furrow and planted the good seed; the hard beginning is over. If we would reap the full harvest we must cultivate the soil where this good seed is sprouting and the plant is reaching up to mature growth."

Pictures Recovery Moves.

Mr. Roosevelt's message, his first on the traditional "state of the nation," was an accounting of his stewardship during the first ten months of his administration, one of the most strenuous periods in the country's history.

He pictured the various recovery moves initiated in his administration as knitting themselves together to comprise, ultimately, a structure that will better equip government to meet the problems of modern civilization. This structure, he observed, must be erected "on the ruins of the past."

"Civilization cannot go back," he said. "Civilization must not stand still. We have undertaken new methods. It is our task to perfect, to improve, to alter when necessary, but in all cases to go forward."

"To consolidate what we are doing, to make our economic and social structure capable of dealing with modern life is the joint task of the legislative, the judicial and the executive branches of the national government."

No Specific Recommendations. The president made no specific recommendations in his message, other than the general insistence that there be no turning backward along "New Deal" road. Specific proposals for legislation will come along piecemeal as the congressional session advances. He preferred to keep this communication general and informative.

But he did observe that the issue is clearly drawn between the "old dealers" and the "new dealers."

"Now that we are definitely in the process of recovery," he said, "lines have been rightly drawn between those to whom this recovery means a return to old methods—and the number of these people is small—and those for whom recovery means a reform of many old methods, a permanent readjustment."

There's pieces lying in the streets and scattered slabs and chunks those resolutions now are broke, a pile of scrap and junk. They didn't last so very long, perhaps they weren't intended, for habits formed for many years are long in getting mended. You swore off smoking, light'er up now swearing, cussing, drinking, but in the cold gray light of dawn no doubt you started thinking that resolutions often break, it seems they're built that way, and now you're shed of what you said, it's forty two today.

Hit-Run Driver Is Being Sought

West Pittsburg Girl Is Struck By Auto Tuesday Night

She was considerably bruised, and after being taken to a nearby residence the state highway patrol was notified.

Corporal L. J. Lawton responded and immediately summoned a physician. He found the girl suffering from bruises and had her removed to the New Castle hospital.

RELIEF WORK IS PUSHED BY STATE

(International News Service) LOS ANGELES, Jan. 3.—The death list in the wake of unprecedented floods mounted steadily today in Los Angeles county with 36 known dead and 75 persons missing.

Twenty-nine of the dead were identified. Authorities feared that the casualty list would total 100 or more as relief workers continued their grim task of searching for bodies under tons of debris swept down narrow mountain ravines after a New Year's eve rainstorm that brought from eight to 12 inches of water.

Gov. James Rolph, Jr., came here by airplane from San Francisco to personally inspect the flood zone and push relief work. He ordered out state relief workers to aid flood victims in the devastated areas of Monterey and La Crescenta, near Pasadena.

hunting a blaze. In a few minutes they returned. The fire could not have amounted to much and many people heaved a sigh of relief when they saw them depart.

January was a fairly warm month last year, weather observations show. A year ago today was the coldest during the month, when the temperature dropped to nine degrees. There were only four days during the month when the maximum temperature during the day was below the freezing point.

Weather conditions of the past week should result in quite a large amount of water being stored up in the Pymatuning dam. The Shenango river came up several feet, and the large area drained by the dam would result in quite a lake being created at the Pymatuning it is likely.

The traffic light at the Mill and North street intersection was causing some concern to the city electrician this morning. The light went "temperamental" and required some doctoring.

The new auto inspection period started this week and is keeping inspection stations busy. Motorists are required to have their autos inspected some time during the next three months, the deadline being April 1.

In a magazine issued by the Carnegie Steel Company for the month of January, there is a full page picture of the West Washington street bridge, commenting on the fact that the life of the bridge has been renewed through the repairs made on it.

According to a report to the New Castle News from radio listeners, Rep. Dr. Howard Swick of this district did not answer present at the roll call in the house at noon today in Washington. The roll call preceded the message by President Roosevelt.

FORCED TO MAKE CONFESSION SAYS GREENVILLE MAN

Constance Ferruccio, 22, standing in the doorway with Spano.

"Here is a man who wants to make a statement" said one of the girls. The trio came in and Spano told the state police that he was implicated in the robbery of the Fredonia Bank. Later he said he had made the statement in fear of his life.

Still later the family of Spano in Greenville said that two gunmen had come into their home, showed a gun in Joe's ribs and ordered him to come with them. He was put into an automobile with the two girls and the two cars headed for Mercer.

In Mercer the gunmen are said to have waited until the two girls and Spano went into the State Police barracks and then left. Posses of county and state officers are now searching for the gunmen.

Three Are Held

Corporal Brooks ordered Spano and the two girls held on an open charge and the case is being investigated. Back of it are said to be threats of one of the girls in the Mercer court room on Tuesday to "get somebody" after her sixteen year old brother was sentenced to a 5-10 term in the Western Penitentiary.

Angelo Ferruccio at one time stayed in the Spano home it is said. Sometime after the robbery of the Fredonia Bank, Angelo was captured but pleaded guilty. Later the younger brother Patsy was captured but insisted that he was not in Fredonia the night of the robbery. In spite of an alibi he was convicted and sentenced.

of many of our ways of thinking and therefore of many of our social and economic arrangements." "This was regarded as a distinct challenge to those leaders of the business and political world who have been sniping at phases of the recovery program and longing for 'the good old days' when the national government touched but lightly if at all the life of the average citizen.

Probably the sharpest part of the message was where he spoke, and with feeling, about bankers and business leaders who have been revealed in senate investigations to have been guilty of ethical malpractice. He named no names, but none of his hearers had any doubt as to whom he meant.

Have Been Shocked. "We have been shocked," he said, "by many notorious examples of injuries done our citizens by persons or groups of persons who have been living off their neighbors by the use of methods either unethical or criminal.

"Practices have been brought to light which have shocked those who have believed that we were in the past generation raising the ethical standards of business.

"They call for stringent preventive and regulatory measures. "I am speaking of those individuals who have evaded the spirit and purpose of our tax laws, of those high officials of banks and corporations who have grown rich at the expense of their stockholders or the public, of those reckless speculators with their own or other people's money whose operations have injured the values of the farmers' crops and the savings of the poor."

Sums Up Accomplishments. Reporting chronologically, on what has been accomplished in the past ten months, Mr. Roosevelt said that the national credit has been fortified.

The overwhelming majority of banks, state and national, which have re-opened are in sound condition.

Nearly $600,000,000 of frozen deposits are being restored through the assistance of the federal government.

The NRA has succeeded in returning several millions of people to work, abolishing child labor and standardizing wages and hours of labor.

Farms and homes have been re-financed.

The experiment of trying to balance agricultural production and consumption is succeeding.

Through the CWA, millions have been taken off charity and given work.

The president dealt only briefly with foreign affairs.

"I cannot, unfortunately," he said, "present to you a picture of complete optimism regarding world affairs."

The Pan-American conference at Montevideo he pronounced "an outstanding success," but "in other parts of the world fear of immediate or future aggression" prevent any great progress in peace or trade agreements.

This has been accompanied, he said, by spending of vast sums for unbuilding of armament.

Foreign Debt. On the question of the foreign debts, he merely reported that some governments had completely defaulted, some had paid in part, and that only one, little Finland, had paid installments in full.

He promised to report later to congress on the whole question of the debts, but gave no inkling of what he will propose be done about them.

In general, Mr. Roosevelt envisioned the "new deal" as a permanent institution, although he conceded changes and modifications may be necessary from time to time. On this point he said:

"Though the machinery, hurriedly devised, may need readjustment from time to time, nevertheless I think you will agree with me that we have created a permanent feature of our modernized industrial structure and that it will continue under the supervision but not the arbitrary dictation of government itself."

He said it was "to the eternal credit" of the American people that this tremendous readjustment is being accomplished peacefully and with a minimum of dislocation and injustice.

"Disorder is not an American habit," he declared. "Self-help and self-control are the essence of the American tradition. The program itself comes from the American people."

"It is an integrated program, national in scope. Viewed in the large it is designed to save from destruction and to keep for the future the genuinely important values created by modern society."

"The vicious and wasteful parts of that society we could not save if we wished they have chosen the way of self-destruction."

As the house opened, the house galleries, which can only accommodate 600 persons, were jammed, while scores thronged the corridors outside vainly trying to get in. Even the diplomatic gallery, usually empty or only partly filled, was overflowing.

Friends of President Present. A few friends of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt occupied the executive gallery.

Alice Roosevelt Longworth, wife of the former speaker, had a seat in the speaker's gallery.

Members of the feminine bloc were scattered throughout the chamber, including the newest member, Mrs. Isabella Greenway (D) of Arizona, a warm friend of Mrs. Roosevelt. Mrs. Greenway was elected during the recess.

The roll call of the house was conducted to the accompaniment of so much noise that Speaker Rainey was forced repeatedly to bang his gavel.

Down in the well of the house, additional seats had been put in for the accommodation of cabinet members and members of the senate in a body. Contrary to the usual custom, the blackrobed members of the Supreme Court were not seated in the well on this opening day.

They sat, instead, in the gallery. Formalities occupied the interim between the hours of convening and the delivery of the president's message. There were opening prayers, rolls were called, new members sworn in, not many because there were not many vacancies. All this to the accompaniment of much confusion and hubbub on the floors.

In the senate, Genial "Jim" Farley, postmaster general, circulated about the floor shaking hands and indulging in much backslapping.

The senate's opening prayer caught a dozen senators outside the chamber, including the inimitable Huey "Kingfish" Long of Louisiana. As soon as the prayer was over, Huey came bustling in through the swinging doors, grinning widely and evidently in high spirits. He shook hands with everybody, including Farley, who has denied the Kingfish much patronage.

The senate remained in session only eighteen minutes.

Four senators took the oath, three of them freshmen—Gibson (R) of Vermont, Hatch (D) of New Mexico, and O'Mahoney (D) of Wyoming. Senator Byrd (D) of Virginia, was starting a new term.

Then the usual resolution was adopted to notify the president and the house that the senate was in session. A recess followed.

Pittsburgh Is Unable To Meet December Payroll

Open Night School At North Street

Sixty-Five Hundred City Employees In Pittsburgh Clamor For Pay Today

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Jan. 3.—Sixty-five hundred city employees clamored today for overdue pay as the city was unable to meet payrolls for the final two weeks of December.

All departments of the city except the police and fire bureaus were affected by the fundless treasury. The police and fire payroll is not until next week.

Failure of the people to pay 1934 taxes was blamed for the lack of funds.

Mayor William M. McNair, appealed to by a delegation of health department employees, proposed that the city workers collect their salaries from delinquent taxpayers by having them cash their salary warrants.

He added that he intends to do this if the city's treasury is empty when his pay day arrives.

So enthusiastic was the response to the opening of the night school classes in the North street school that for the present no more can be accommodated. Over 100 students were present and enrolled and the classes got under way immediately.

The classes are a part of the Emergency Educational Relief program which is being handled so successfully here. There are still openings in the night classes in the Lincoln-Garfield school Dr. C. C. Green said.

Mr. Insull doubts that he could endure the rigors of a Chicago winter but is strangely silent as regards the rigors endured by those who bought his stock.

King George, we read, always carries indigestion tablets in his vest. Social climbers henceforth will boast of having the same sort of belyache that the king has.

THE SESSION OF CONGRESS

CONGRESS convenes for the first regular session of the Roosevelt administration with a much lighter and less difficult task than it met last spring when President Roosevelt called it into special session to cope with one of the greatest crises in the nation's history. The national legislature was equal to that grave situation; it should dispose of the problems of this session in less time than it takes to appoint a postmaster and with less effort.

Were the administration able to satisfy all sides with its monetary policies this session would be of short duration, barring the unforeseen. There is really very little before congress at this time and only one highly controversial issue. Republican opposition to administration policies will be more in evidence than at the last session, but with the Democrats still controlling both houses the administration will have little trouble from that quarter. And federal jobs and favors will silence recalcitrant Democratic congressmen should any speak out of turn.

First of the congressional uncertainties at this time is the monetary legislation already jamming the congressional hoppers. Whether congress will demand more inflation or send us back to the gold standard or adopt the middle course taken by President Roosevelt is conjectural. On this issue congress will be divided three ways. Here is the issue that will put the Roosevelt leadership to its first real test.

Congress can best boost the recovery program by deciding the monetary question quickly and decisively and adjourning as soon as its business permits. Business is holding back out of the uncertainty.

LINDBERGH IN NEW ROLE

The entire nation will be interested in reports that Colonel Lindbergh has taken a hand in the controversy between Orville Wright and the Smithsonian institution, with the hope of effecting a reconciliation that will permit the institution to come into possession of the first Wright airplane.

The dispute, it will be recalled, arose out of the Smithsonian's action in giving credit to Professor Langley for inventing the airplane. Marking the controversy was an actual flight of the Langley machine but long after the Wright brothers had proved at Kitty Hawk, N. C., man's actual conquest of the air. Important changes in the Langley plane were made before the ancient craft was taken from the institution and nosed into the air, it was charged by Mr. Wright.

Popular opinion has been on the side of the Wright brothers, who first proved by a demonstration that a heavier-than-air machine could fly. Other experimenters and inventors had fallen short of this goal.

Colonel Lindbergh seems the proper person to attempt a settlement of the dispute. He is the nation's, if not the world's premier aviator. He has an intense interest in aviation, to the development of which he has contributed much. If he succeeds in settling the Wright-Smithsonian controversy, he will have added to his laurels as a great flyer, an important achievement as a diplomat.

THE DRIVERS ARE MORE RESPONSIBLE

In the past there have been numerous accidents in which the guilty drivers escaped paying for the damage they caused because they carried no insurance and possessed no property or other financial responsibility. It was an injustice to the owners of cars which sustained the damage. About all they could do was to shrug their shoulders and pay the expense themselves. The new liability act, which went into effect Monday, should do much toward eliminating this unfair condition. This act, in brief, provides that any person whose operator's license has been suspended or revoked shall not be permitted to operate a motor vehicle in the state until evidence of financial responsibility is established. And if any operator is involved in two accidents involving $200 during the twelve months preceding the date of application for license, the same evidence will be demanded before the license is granted. Every driver should become acquainted with the provisions of the new act as soon as possible.

HURLEY'S "BRIDGE TO FRANCE"

The recent death of Edward N. Hurley, of Chicago, war-time head of the United States Shipping Board and Emergency Fleet Corporation, recalls his immense achievement as the builder of that "Bridge to France" over which the armies of the United States poured into war-torn Europe to join with the Allies.

And the colossal effort and expenditures involved in the building of that 3,000 mile long bridge of vessels created almost overnight, points the moral to a story of half a century of unpreparedness.

For had the United States not abandoned all thought of maintaining and developing a merchant marine during the period in our national life defined by the close of the American Civil War and the outbreak of the world conflict, no such great effort and greater expense would have been required.

As it was and because the American flag had been permitted to disappear from the seven seas to an extent which found us in 1914 carrying less than 10 per cent of our own overseas trade, it cost us as a nation about three and one-half billions of dollars to build a war-time fleet. And before we built it we had already paid millions to European nations in exorbitant freight rates and had lost millions in jettisoned cargoes which had rotted on our piers for lack of bottoms to carry them.

Today that "Bridge to France" is still costing us about one hundred million dollars a year in interest alone. And when the war came to a conclusion we were still lacking in a merchant marine equipped to meet the requirements of modern commerce.

I I I
My Father was mistaken. He told me, many years ago, that I shouldn't begin to shave too soon. Because, if I did, the hair on my face would coarsen and I'd have to keep on shaving. A scientist, lately, has proved that shaving does not do this.

A child told me that as soon as she finished the page she was reading, she would go to bed. . . . Ten minutes later she was still reading and I knew she could read faster than that. . . . I did the same thing when I was as young as that little girl.

I have never enjoyed being told something for my own good. . . . How does that other fellow know what is for my own good? . . . I suspect his motives.

No wife likes to be told that she dominates her husband.

I think the average child is not nearly as sensitive as the average adult thinks.

I do not like to see my friend succeed at something I was too timid to attempt.

I will admit my business judgment is bad or that I have no sense of humor—but not that I am a bad judge of human nature.

My first impressions are not always right.

I don't know why there are never-enough ash trays.

I don't believe in drafts. . . . I mean I don't believe they cause colds.

I don't see why housewives prefer white eggs to brown eggs.

If you ask me what is none of your business, I will lie—and the sin will be yours, not mine, because you forced me to it.

I have more confidence in rebellious children than in the ones who always do what mama says.

I wonder why human beings are peevish when they are tired.

I wonder why an individual who uses "it" as often as this lays himself open to the charge of egotism.

Because the greatest egotism is often the one who carefully conceals his self-love. . . . And everybody thinks about himself more often than he thinks of anybody else in the world.

DON'T BE HYPERSENSITIVE.

Aren't you too aggressive in support of what you consider your "just rights?"

It takes little to offend your dignity.

You will fight in defense of your "integrity" or anything that savors of "an insult to your intelligence."

This uncontrolled sensitiveness and an exaggerated opinion of what you represent, gets you into a lot of trouble.

You find that most of the time you are in a belligerent mood.

Often you are depressed because of what you hear people say about you.

You are hurt at the way you are received by certain others.

Perhaps no slight was intended; on the other hand, some people say and do things fully intending to rouse your "touch and go" temper.

Throughout your whole life you have had much unhappiness as a result of your oversensitiveness.

Why allow anyone to have such a power over you?

Why allow your imagination to picture so much that is unpleasant?

Be more independent and prove to those who ensure you that you don't care a whoop what they think by being less aggressive in your own defense.

THE HANGMAN
He wouldn't tell his name
Or the place from whence he came.
He went about his business
In a sullen, ghastly way;
Built a trestle and a noose
On a rope which dangled loose.
For he'd come to hang a felon
At the dawn of the day.

He was business-like and grim
And to all who spoke to him
He was terse and crisp and surly.
As a hangman ought to be.
He attached each leather strap
And death's black and solemn cap
In a most efficient manner
As the witnesses could see.

Then he threw the bar aside
And a human being died.
But he made no sign of pity.
Was it wrong or was it right?
Ere the little room had cleared
He had swiftly disappeared
And was on his way to somewhere
In the blackness of the night.

Oh, I know that there must be
Men to build the gallows tree.
Knot the noose and pull the lever
When the laws a man condemn.
But I wonder as they go
If the hangman's loved ones know
How he makes that extra money
Which he sometimes brings to them?

Don't try to reform her methods of household management. Don't resent out loud her dealings with her son. Don't begrudge waiting on her. Don't belittle her real or fancied ailments. Don't criticize her personal habits. Don't forget to practice tolerance, always.

Congress to Be Peaceful?
Hardly—Says Commentator
Measures Too SignificantBy LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—New York looks for a "quiet" congress. I do not.

It is true that currency inflation will be loudly debated and that nothing much will occur. President Roosevelt "has the situation well in hand" (even though the silver people will do much talking).

It is true that immense new grants will be made for public works over a stiffening opposition of financial interests.

It is true that bank deposit insurance and the securities act will be attacked—but there will be no change (this session).

But it isn't true that a 30-hour work week for industry can be put through without a struggle.

And it isn't true that the Tugwell bill, regulating the sale and advertising of foods, drugs and cosmetics will not raise an uproar.

Nor is it true that increase in gift and inheritance and excess profits taxes can be passed without a battle to the death with powerful lobbies.

Also it is not likely that industry will sit calmly by while labor tries to have the industrial recovery act's labor clause written permanently into the federal laws.

And of course regulation of stock and commodity exchanges will be resisted by those who operate those exchanges.

It looks, indeed, as if it will be a momentous session of congress—a test as to whether a new era actually has arrived or whether the old shall reclaim us.

CUT TO BE RESTORED
One thing seems certain—this session of congress will restore the 15 per cent that had been cut from federal salaries.

That will be a hint to private employers, according to administration views.

NATURE TAKES A HAND
Man, after all, is only a feeble instrument toward accomplishment.

His crops become "too large" (tell that to the starving) and he destroys them. He "earns" more by destroying them than marketing them.

But even with all that, production is "too large." Nature continues to multiply foods.

(She cannot understand the foolish ways of men.)

Yet, if men desire less food production, nature will see to that—eventually. In Colombia, for example, heavy rains have cut coffee production 15 per cent.

That's more than all the plowing under could cut a crop.

NATURE'S PRANK
Nor is the hand of man mighty even in that which he builds.

Suppose Hoover Had Lavishly Employed U. S. Funds For Jobs?

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent,
New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 3.—Of course the suggestion is without practical benefit, but it might be interesting to sit off in a corner and wonder if the Hoover administration might not have fared better last November had Mr. Hoover and his aides dispensed federal money to the unemployed so lavishly as the New Deal sponsors.

This thought in retrospect should be had without consideration of the merits or demerits of the New Deal. Political convictions should be forgotten. One should ponder only that single question—if the Hoover Administration had used taxpayers' money to hire five million unemployed would the count at the polls have been different?

Over 6,000,000 On U. S. Payroll

Today, according to the most accurate figures available, more than 6,000,000 men and women are on the federal payroll. That is to say, this number is receiving money from Uncle Sam in exchange for labor. And more than 5,000,000 of these have been placed on the voucher list by the New Dealers.

According to data advanced by members of the Roosevelt Administration, at least 4,150,000 persons are receiving federal pay through the civil works program. Similarly it is claimed more than 1,000,000 have been put to work by the public works program, 335,000 through the civilian conservation plan and in the neighborhood of 26,000 by the Tennessee Valley development.

All these unemployed have been called to work since March fourth. In their pay envelopes is federal money or on their pay checks are figures backed by federal money. Nobody knows just where this money is coming from but just about everybody admits that ultimately it will be paid by the taxpayer.

Now 5,000,000 persons, mostly adult, represent quite an influential block of citizenry. Their personal influence is nothing to be ignored by politicians. The influence of the money they spend in turn may determine how few merchants and craftsmen will vote. And, of course, their friends and families may control quite a number of ballots.

It seems hardly necessary to justify the contention that 5,000,000 grownups might possibly hold the balance of power in a national election. Consideration then reverts to the proposition—had former President Hoover directly hired 5,000,000 citizens, as the New Deal has done, might he have won reelection?

Obviously neither historians nor crystal gazers can satisfactorily answer the question. However, a practical economist and politician—if such there be—might.

Foresters Due Back After Holiday Visit

Half Of Camp Thomas Boys Took Yule Leaves; Gay Time In Camp

By FRANK BOWEN
(Special To The News)
CAMP LOWELL THOMAS, C. O. C., TROUT RUN, Pa., Jan. 3.—The second holiday "leaves" at Camp Thomas found over half of the foresters taking advantage of them, for it is the last leave until the present enlistment closes in March.

Fellows who spent Christmas in camp, however, didn't miss all the thrill of a real, old-fashioned yule celebration—they made sure of that themselves by decorating the camp mess hall in the traditional Christmas fashion.

From out of the woods they dragged a beautiful fir tree and placed it in a conspicuous corner of the hall. The base of it was trimmed with mountain moss and small stones. The tree itself was trimmed.

Those who decorated it were Ralph Brooks, "Al" Nocerra and Joe Koltz. All of the men who remained over the holidays had Monday, New Year's, off.

King Winter holds an icy grip over the mountains and valleys surrounding Camp Thomas, and already, the thermometer at camp has tumbled to the 15-below-zero mark. That was at 3 a. m. one morning. However, when the foresters began work at 8 o'clock one morning the mercury stood at 10 below.

CAMP THOMAS BRIEFS
Ralph Brooks spent New Year's Day at his New Castle home.

The camp cooks got useful utensils for their Christmas presents. Joe Edmunds received a large spoon to sample all his cooking. Maurice Foulter received a pancake turner because of his love for flapjacks. Charles Grindler received an egg beater to make eggnoogs for himself.

Ronald Lewis, the first sergeant, enjoyed a leave over the holidays. Charles Lanigan is acting first sergeant while Lewis is away.

Frank Houser, one of the cooks, has been discharged from one of Williamsport's hospitals.

UTMOST UNIFORMITY AND QUALITY

So round, so firm, so fully packed

no loose ends to spill out or cling to lips

On every fine tobacco plant there are only a few leaves that we buy for Lucky Strike. Not the top leaves—because they are under-developed. Not the bottom leaves—because those are inferior in quality. We select only the center leaves—because the center leaves are the mildest and fully ripe for perfect smoking. Only the center leaves are used in making Luckies—so round, so firm, so fully packed—free from loose ends that spill out, that cling to lips. Is it any wonder? Luckies are mild and smooth? And remember, "It's toasted"—for throat protection—for finer taste.

Johnson Given New Authority Over NRA Codes

President Invests General
Johnson With Power To Approve Small Codes

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—To speed establishment of codes of fair competition in all the relatively small industries, many of which have their codes awaiting White House approval, President Roosevelt today delegated this authority of approving such codes to the national recovery administrator.

Henceforth Administrator Hugh S. Johnson will have authority to approve codes for industries employing 50,000 or less employees, without waiting for White House action.

Thirteen Approved
Meanwhile Mr. Roosevelt has approved 13 additional codes, making 195 the total of codes approved to date. He instructed the federal tariff commission to determine if foreign matches are being imported detrimental to the effectiveness of the match code. The President also asked the commission to investigate the effect on the domestic industry of imported wool-felt hat bodies, hoods, forms and shapes for hats and bonnets. Johnson asked both inquiries be conducted.

Gavel Unheeded, Uses Gun To Call Kiwanis To Order

President Of Tarentum Kiwanis Club Gets Attention By Using Blank Cartridges

(International News Service)
TARENTUM, Pa., Jan. 3.—George N. Scheid, president of the local Kiwanis club, today decided to substitute a revolver and blanks for a gavel when he occupies the chair at future meetings.

An excited pedestrian last night reported he heard shots fired in the Tarentum Y. M. C. A.

Breathless policemen arrived to conduct an investigation and found Scheid had attempted to call to order the first meeting at which he presided as chief executive.

"The boys have a habit of disregarding the gavel," he explained, "so I just fired a couple of blanks. It worked."

Today, Scheid said he will continue to use the blanks.

Perfect balance in streamlining is the need in costumes today. A green velvet capelet matches the violet's leaves, and the sandals, designed by Vida Moore, are of white satin with green velvet heels. Bank Deposit Guarantee Plan Now In Effect

Only One Federal Reserve
Member In Nation Not Included In Scheme

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—America's forty billion dollar banking system virtually was under the control of the government today—a situation that has never existed before.

Only one reserve member bank refused to become a part of the scheme. This was the First National Bank of Englewood, Ill.

Through the ownership of nearly $900,000,000 capital stock and notes of the banks of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the functions of the Federal Insurance Deposit Corporation, the Comptroller of the Currency and the Federal Reserve System the federal government exercises a predominating control.

Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the R. F. C., left no doubt that the administration of banks would be supervised strictly.

"Where the R. F. C. has a substantial interest in the bank through the purchase of capital stock and notes it is natural that we shall inquire into their affairs and satisfy ourselves that operation is in the public interest," Jones said.

NEW CASTLE-ELLWOOD KIWANIS CLUBS HAVE JOINT INSTALLATION

and Mr. Gold had been inducted just a moment or so before.

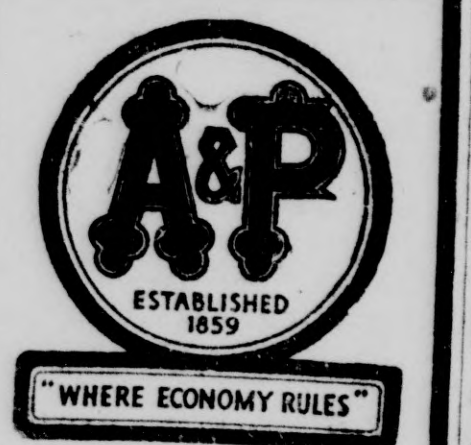

A custom it has become for the New Castle club, the daddy club, to hold joint induction ceremonies with the younger, the Ellwood club, but never was there conducted a more inspiring inaugural than last night's.

Junior Kiwanians Attend

With the dinner, the pep song period led by Samuel Lewis and the brief pause for the introduction of Past Lieutenant Governor Dr. H. E. Helling, Ellwood City, over retiring President Clark, the evening's chairman, launched into the program by asking Julius Blaha, chairman of the Ellwood club, to explain the New Castle club, to explain for the visitors the idea of the "Junior Kiwanian" plan as developed by the local club during 1933.

Blaha's response was appropriate, explanatory—but he chose to call upon the junior Kiwanians themselves to elaborate his announced plan. Fittingly, after Mr. Blaha had presented to them framed Kiwanis code of ethics, Robert Jamison arose and introduced Loring

"Bud" Gordon, his successor, and James Goodchild presented George W. Conway, Jr., his successor, who will fill a junior Kiwanis post for the next 13 weeks. All are Senior high fellows.

Around one large table were seated Mr. Blaha, rapidly earning a title as Father Blaha, and his former Kiwanis proteges. In addition to the first four were Harold Dickson, Robert Lennig, Heber Baldwin, James Elder, Tom Stevenson and Dave McBride, while John Stump and Rex Rowland, past junior Kiwanians, wrote letters that conveyed their regrets at being unable to attend. They are at college. Two others at the table were Louis Casselman and Fred Alexander, winners of I. C. S. scholarships, another hobby of the Kiwanis.

Hear Lieutenant Governor

Declaring that the New Castle club was "twice honored" because Ellwood came as its guest and because a lieutenant governor came to address them, President Clark next called upon Mr. Hanger.

Recalling that Kiwanis International, now 18 years old, at the dawn of this new year, sees the signs of those objectives for which it has strived, and that, while members and clubs have talked of those things in a Utopian sort of a way for years, that talk has been largely in the realm of the imaginative, Lieutenant Governor Hanger sounded anew the challenge that "service is the signal purpose for Kiwanis."

The district officer, superintendent of schools at Washington, Pa., praised most highly the work of both the New Castle and Ellwood clubs. It was then that he began his charge to the new officers and directors, speaking last to the new presidents.

President pins and gavels were given to Mr. Reebel and Mr. Gold and past president pins to Mr. Clark and Mr. Bell. After their induction, the newly installed leaders gave short inaugurals.

President Clark praised the New Castle men for their untiring efforts in community service during the past 12 months, and thanked them for their support. He pledged his cooperation to the new leaders, and publicly thanked The News for its cooperation.

The "Star Spangled Banner" was sung as an inspiring climax to the night induction, and President Reebel adjourned the meeting.

REPORT PROGRESS IN GIRL SCOUT CIRCLES

A year of accomplishment was seen in retrospect Tuesday evening when the Girl Scout council of New Castle had its annual meeting in the home of Mrs. A. B. Street, Moody avenue.

Reports submitted by the officers who served during the past year showed that the Girl Scout organization of this city has grown to an unprecedented strength; there are more leaders, more troops, more scouts and more enthusiasm than ever before.

Elect Officers.

An important feature of the meeting was the annual election of new officers. They are:

Commissioner—Mrs. W. H. Hanger.
Deputy commissioner—Miss Elizabeth Reis.
Secretary—Miss Helen Wilson.
Treasurer—Mrs. F. E. Sowersby.
Miss Martha Bigley, who has served so ably as commissioner during the past year, presided throughout the meeting.

Mrs. F. E. Sowersby presented the annual report of the treasurer. The finances were shown to be in good condition, and the past year an unusually good one in this respect. Miss Reis gave a report of the training committee. Twenty new troop leaders were given training last year, the report showed.

Two "Lone Troops."

In addition to three new troops organized in the city, two Lone Troops were sponsored in the county, one at Pultski and the other at New Wilmington. The local organization is standing behind these two troops, although the direct governing is being done by community committees.

The following committees for 1934 were appointed by the new commissioner, Mrs. W. H. Hanger:

Standards, Mrs. Albert Street, Mrs. H. S. Christman, training, Mrs. Henry Rappold, Mrs. Cassius Balph, Mrs. John Higgins and Mrs. Earl Gray; camp, Miss Elizabeth Reis; publicity, Mrs. James Crawford; Miss Alice Sterling; finance, Mrs. F. E. Sowersby, Mrs. W. H. Hanger and Mrs. James Crawford; Lone Scout chairman, Miss Elizabeth Reis, and Community Chest representatives, Miss Elizabeth Reis and Mrs. W. H. Hanger.

New Sheriff Learning Job

Pritchard Finds New County
Job Provides Interesting Tasks

KANGAROO COURT GIVES HIM TRIAL

Running a hot mill isn't just like running a sheriff's office. And pushing a pack of 28 gauge through a pair of rolls hasn't much in common with sticking some malefactor into jail. Sheriff Edward Pritchard is finding it out and after two days of service as sheriff of Lawrence county he is convinced that a hot mill with all its noise is quieter than a sheriff's office running full blast.

Since taking office he has hardly slept. Familiarizing himself with the forms and routine attendant to the office, seeing that the jail is in shape, getting his family moved into the sheriff's residence, accepting a well wishes, and trying to induce a dozen salesmen that he doesn't want any supplies as yet has kept him awake most of the 24 hours, but gradually he is fitting into the groove.

Arrested By Kangaroos

One of his first surprises was his arrest and trial before the Kangaroo Court in the county jail. Not alone the sheriff, but his deputies as well. As they stepped into the jail on Tuesday, Harry Frank, who is the sheriff of the Kangaroo Court placed Pritchard and his deputies under arrest by the order of the Kangaroo District Attorney Harry J. Mooney. The prisoners were held before Judge Fred J. Coats, charged with breaking and entering the jail without the consent of the inmates.

The rules and regulations were read to them and after deciding they didn't have a chance they all pleaded guilty. Sheriff Pritchard pleaded ignorance of the Kangaroo Law but was informed that ignorance of the law excused no one and the four of them were fined. Chief Deputy Ben Hartland suggested that he give the court a check on an Havana bank in payment but he was informed that no checks were taken. It seems there is one prisoner who was too handy writing checks.

The three prisoners filed past Treasurer Dominick Metz and left their fines in cash and the Kangaroo Court treasury is in a healthy condition today.

Following the hearing, Sheriff Pritchard talked to the prisoners and asked them to co-operate with him in keeping the jail in good shape. They agreed to join in a cleanup movement that will see the jail interior scrubbed from the floor to the ceiling.

State Liquor Store Not Opened Yet

Will Probably Be Open On Thursday—Building
About Ready

New Castle's state liquor store is now ready to operate. Well nearly ready anyway. The bars (steel ones) are on the windows, the bins and shelving are installed, the lights are up, the painting is completed, the gold sign is on the window, the telephone is in, the furnaces is lighted, and the manager's office is ready for occupancy.

But there isn't any liquor. Long rows of bins stare at you with a bored yawn, and the bars on the windows merely serve to gather frost. It is a liquor store without any liquor which puts it in the class of a cottage pudding without any cottages.

However, it won't be long now. J. M. McCracken, the supervisor from Leechburg expected to be here today to take over the building, and with his taking it over the order for a stock of liquors will be rushed to Pittsburgh.

It is thought that the store will open on Thursday morning.

Citizens Club Meets Tonight

Post Office W. k. Halted At Present, Lags Even Further

Progress, Myers' Report Shows,
Now Trails By 35.8
Per Cent

Construction work on New Castle's new post office, dormant now for more than a month because of stone difficulties, lagged 35.8 percent behind the normal progress percentage at the turn of the new year, it was shown today in the December report of Resident Construction Engineer Miles E. Myers.

On January 1, the progress was established at 51.2 percent, while 87 percent is the normal percentage, the report said.

In his monthly review, Myers also said that the bricklayers still remain on strike awaiting alleged back wages. The order halting stone work, issued by the Treasury department, still stands.

Conferences at Washington, according to press reports, are being held in an effort to adjust the stone difficulties.

While March 1, this year, was first announced as the occupancy date, it was later postponed to June 1. This date, however, will likely be changed to a later date unless progress is soon resumed.

Metzger Explains What "Bottled In Bond" Means

HARRISBURG, Jan. 3.—For the benefit of those whose memories are dulled by the passage of 14 years, Leon D. Metzger, secretary of revenue, today gave this explanation of the phrase "bottled in bond."

"Generally speaking, all distilled liquor must be placed in bond in a warehouse designated by the Federal Government. The bond is to insure payment of the Federal tax, and, if the liquor is left in storage for four years, or more, it may be sold under a label stating that it was bottled in bond."

The secretary explained further how the circumstances under which liquor is placed in bond affect the period within which the State spirituous and vinous liquor tax must be paid. This is the levy of $2 a proof gallon on liquor and wines supplementing the floor tax which imposed the same rate of tax on all alcoholic liquor, useable for beverage purposes, in storage up to midnight, December 5.

"If liquor produced after December 5 and before January 1 was put in bond, the $2 tax does not become payable until the 15th day of the month after it is withdrawn from bond," Secretary Metzger said. "This may be years from now."

"However, as to liquor which is not placed in bond, or is placed in bond only temporarily, the $2 tax becomes payable on January 15, 1934, at the time reports are required to be filed with the Revenue Department."

"This will apply to those liquors which can be produced quickly, without being aged. Chief among this group are straight alcohol and gin. Some distillers also are placing on the market a whiskey which is not aged but treated to an artificial process instead. The tax on these and similar liquors will become due on January 15."

SEVENTH WARD NEWS

Horse Gets Hoof Caught In Tracks And Causes Plenty Of Trouble Yesterday At Cherry Street Crossing

The Cherry street crossing of the Pennsylvania railroad was the scene of a peculiar accident Tuesday that resulted in a little excitement spread over a period of 25 minutes and a badly sprained ankle for a badly scared horse.

When being driven over the crossing, the horse owned by Alex Kozol of R. D. 7, West Pittsburgh road, came to a sudden halt and toppled over. The animal's right hind hoof had become caught between the guard rail and rail of the tracks and it looked as if it would stay just there.

After a crowd struggled for nearly a half hour with crowbars the horse became disentangled with the track and was put on his feet again. A veterinarian was called and an examination revealed that no bones were broken and that the extent of the injuries was a sprain of the ankle and a cut on the front of the leg below the knee.

Besides his other virtues, which include a rather winsome disposition and thoroughbred ancestors, "Bugs", the collie dog owned by Walter Stone of North Liberty street, is a "homer".

Bugs is a mighty fine animal and has as many good points as a package of fine needles, but, since there was another dog in the household who had seniority and was a good hunter as well, he was taken for a ride to Pulaski this week where a good home was promised.

Early next morning Bugs was back at his master's door, footsore and weary, but triumphant.

Four men were in seventh ward for a short time Tuesday engaged on a CWA project which calls for the measurement of all streets and roads which are under the supervision of the city.

A number of games were played and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Mable Stump, Mrs. Irene Gorley, Mrs. Bertha Kerr, Mrs. Dorothy Kelley, Mrs. Clara Vogan, Mrs. Myrtle Rohrer and Mrs. Margaret Shanafelt.

Mrs. Clara Vogan of Geneva, O., was a special guest.

The class will be entertained at a Valentine party on February 2 with husbands of the members as guests.

On Court House Hill

Attorney H. A. Wilkinson was the first person to put a deed on record under the new register and recorder, William R. Hanna. Mr. Hanna had barely reached his office, after being sworn in, when Mr. Wilkinson handed him the deed, which was from Anna Dietterle to John Schneider for property in the fourth ward, consideration, $2,980.

Seventeen deeds and seven mortgages were placed on record at the court house last week. In all 51 instruments were recorded, many of them being commissions and bonds of newly elected officials. Among the mortgages recorded was one for $500,000 given by the Pennsylvania Engineering Works to the Union Trust company. The mortgage covers properties of the Engineering company in this city and in Meadville. It is the largest recorded here for some time.

Two home owners loan mortgages, one in the sum of $1,378.50 and the other in the sum of $1,981.87, were recorded, also two of the land bank commissioner, totaling $5,100, one to a building and loan for $1,600 and one to a private individual for $1,339.

The record last week compares with 18 deeds and 15 mortgages the previous week, the mortgages totaling $31,020.

Robert H. Whaley, who was elected sheriff of Lawrence county in 1910, has since served as deputy under three sheriffs and has again been named under the fourth. The sheriffs were Will Andrews, H. M. Reynolds, Frank Johnston and the present sheriff, Edward Pritchard.

The executrix is directed to sell property in Union township as soon as a fair price can be obtained, and give the proceeds to the First United Presbyterian church, of which Mrs. Campbell was a member. The property consists of six acres with two buildings.

In the case of the William Schuett company against the First National bank of Ellwood City, R. W. Wylie, receiver, Judge James A. Chambers has handed down an opinion in which a motion to strike off a statement of claim is made absolute, unless the plaintiff files a further amended statement of claim within 15 days; upon the filing of such amended statement, the rule is discharged. The case is one in which the plaintiff seeks to recover $3500 which it is claimed was held in escrow by the bank, pending a settlement of differences between the Ellwood City Lumber company and the Globe Indemnity company.

In the estate of the late William G. Gillilan of Washington township, letters of administration have been granted by the register and recorder to James E. Burton.

In the estate of the late Anna J. Elliott of Slippery Rock township, letters of administration have been granted to H. L. Hill.

Antonio Buzcar has been granted letters of administration in the estate of Jacob Buzcar, late of New Castle.

By an order of court Nellie P. Dunbar of Ellwood City has been granted an allowance for Harry, Melvin and Nancy Dunbar, for whom the Lawrence Savings & Trust company is guardian.

County commissioners report that it will be impracticable to build a temporary bridge at Rose Point during the construction of the proposed bridge by the state. Arrangements will therefore be made for a detour. This will probably be by way of Harlansburg, and then down the Perry highway. There will be several ways which motorists can go. Those leaving this city can go direct to Harlansburg and then down the Perry highway without much inconvenience. There will also be a good detour from the cross roads at Princeton over to the Frew Mill road. Several other roads will be available.

Justice of the Peace James Glover of Wampum filed his commission and was sworn into office at the court house Saturday. He was re-elected.

I INVITE EVERYONE TO TRY A FREE SAMPLE OF MY NEW MEDICINE

I Want You To Try This Splendid Prescription Before You Buy, So Come To New Castle Drug Co., And Ask For Me. There Are No Strings To This Offer.

This is the new medicine that acts quickly for relief of stomach disorders, constipation and nervousness; arouses a lazy liver, strengthens weak kidneys, relieves rheumatic pains and pep's up a run-down system.

My invitation is such that everyone should be glad to accept. No matter what remedies you have tried or how many bottles you have on the shelf half full because they did not give the relief you expected or desired, you cannot afford to refuse to try my medicine free. Come right down to New Castle Drug Co., 31 East Washington Street, and ask for me, the Vendol Man, and I will present you with a full trial bottle of the best medicine you ever took.

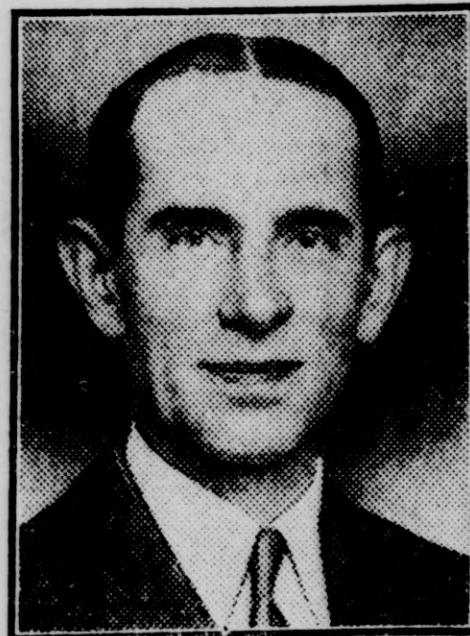

Vendol is the prescription of which Mr. Burchell said, "It's the only medicine that put an end to acid dyspepsia and restored me to normal digestion," and Mrs. Swift declared, "It relieved constipation quickly and quieted my nerves so that I got sound, refreshing sleep every night." Mr. Ackroyd said, "I'm now free of backache and kidney weakness that called me up several times during every night."

I could quote hundreds of others but what's the use, come try it for yourself.

When you have a feeling you wish you could "take a day off", not really sick but yet not up to mark; when your stomach feels gassy after meals and does not digest your food thoroughly; when the liver is sluggish and you feel drowsy, a little dizzy-headed or dizzy, when you are constipated every day; if the blood is slow flowing from impurities that should be passing off; if you have lost your appetite, can't sleep well, you have pains in the back, muscles or joints and just feel generally "out of sorts", it's a sure sign that you need a good bracing tonic.

Don't let this condition go unheeded, it will not right itself alone, but needs assistance. Your vital organs require a little toning up or some real disease will slip in and get a firm hold on you. Don't put it off until tomorrow, next week or some more convenient time. That might be too late.

My free trial bottle will prove to you that I claim and a full treatment will have you looking like a different man or woman in a couple of weeks. I say this because I've seen it happen over and over.

MR. J. A. MCGUIRE, The Vendol Man

Vendol is not an ordinary patent medicine but is different from the usual run of medicines offered the general public. Twelve herbal plants are used to compound this successful prescription, each one selected for its known action on the organs of the human system. Vendol does not just "boost" you up for the time being but goes to the seat of the trouble, therefore results are lasting.

I could write a book as big as the dictionary but couldn't prove as much to you as you'll find out for yourself by taking a bottle of Vendol, so don't delay.

I have headquarters at the New Castle Drug Co., 31 East Washington Street, and invite every man and woman in this city and vicinity to come to see me there. If you will just tell me your troubles, I'll be honest and square with you as to whether I believe Vendol will help you. I'll tell you so frankly. I only want people to take Vendol when I believe it will benefit.

Take home a valuable booklet I have for free distribution, try one of my free samples and, if you do not discover that Vendol is the best medicine you ever took, I'll be disappointed. There's no obligation on your part except to come early before my supply of samples gives out, so come today. No samples sent by mail. Sale size may be had C. O. D.

Lloyd Davis was a Sharon visitor over the week end.
Miss Marian Perver was a holiday guest in Elizabeth, Pa.
Mrs. Helene Hartwell of New Castle was a local guest on Tuesday.
Paul Stewart of Sharon, Pa., was a local business visitor on Tuesday.
Miss Moyer, an employee of the First National Bank, was a visitor at her home in Ellwood City over the week end.
Richard Klumph of Jackson Center, is spending the Christmas vacation here. He is a student in Mercer high school.
Mr. and Mrs. C. B. White and sons John and Robert, were dinner guests at the Stirtz home in New Castle on New Year's day.
The Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist church will hold a thirteen dinner in the church cafeteria on Tuesday, January 9 at 6 o'clock. Husbands and friends will be guests of the evening.
Young People's service of the U. P. church on Sunday evening was featured by a presentation of the play "The Story of the Other Wise Man" by Henry Van Dyke, which was given by Edwin Anderson.
The Queen Esther's Society of the Methodist church will meet at the home of Mrs. W. V. Mitchell on Thursday evening of this week for their regular monthly meeting. Mrs. Mitchell is patroness of the organization.

The mid-week service of the United Presbyterian church will feature the congregational group under the leadership of Dr. Hugh Hart who will be in charge of the Wednesday services through January. Dr. S. G. Hart will lead the discussion on Foreign Missions.
After a respite of ten days the school bell tolled merrily on Tuesday morning, summoning the students back from their vacation to their school duties. Only two more weeks remain until the end of the semester and the students are hurrying in an effort to complete back work.
New Wilmington Rotary met at the Tavern on Market street on Monday night for their regular meeting. After a delicious roast beef dinner the club was given a resume of the work in New Wilmington, by Filmore Campbell. After his speech a social hour was enjoyed.
Sabbath will be the opening day of the week of prayer, an annual observance in New Wilmington. The churches of the community will join in the observance of this week. All services will be held in the Methodist church at 7:30 each evening except Saturday. Visiting ministers will bring the message each evening.
W. B. Anderson, supervisor of streets in New Wilmington, has evidently decided that the Christmas season and spirit should prevail into the new year as the Christmas tree on the Diamond is still lighted. Perhaps the most picturesque tree of all in the community was on the lawn of William McLaughry on Furnace hill. Decorated with lights of all hues it could be seen for miles and was a delightful sight. J. L. Coulter's decorations at his home on West Neshannock were also delightful. Two small trees were decorated, all the windows illuminated, with a great star as the centerpiece.
No "chiselers" are apparent in the group working under the CWA banner in New Wilmington. Work, under the general supervision of Guy Neal, is going along nicely, and the raw, cold, weather seems no handicap to the hearty men at work. The excavation at the school house is nearing completion, the next step being the erection of a new coal house. Resurfacing and regrading at the ground surrounding the swimming pool is coming along nicely and another few weeks should see a decided improvement. The extension of a gravel road from Maple street to Disposal Park is well under way and is being supervised by S. M. Dicks. The laborers have received three pays to date and business has increased somewhat in the community. About fifty men are now working.

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—The stock market was dull in forenoon trading today as the majority of traders apparently stepped to the sidelines pending the delivery of the president's message to congress.

The main body of stocks were comparatively steady at fractional lower levels than prevailed at yesterday's close.

Motor shares including Chrysler and General Motors were in fair demand on the decline and yielded only fractions.

Prime industrial stocks including United States Steel and American Can were steady moving in a narrow range slightly under yesterday's close.

Wheat and the other grains were barely steady under yesterday's close, while cotton gained about 5 cents a bale in light trading. Silver and other commodities were quiet.

Utility shares were steady under the lead of Consolidated Gas. American Telephone slipped off about a point. Gold mining and specialty shares were quiet and somewhat soft.

Denver Lawyers Working Hard To Save Young Man

Will File Motion To Have Death Sentence Against Reppin Set Aside

EXECUTION DATE SET THIS WEEK

(International News Service) DENVER, Jan. 3.—Philip Hornbein and David Rosner, Denver attorneys, today will file a motion in the El Paso county district court of Colorado Springs to have the death sentence of Walter Reppin, 18, of Newark, N. J., set aside, according to plans which they worked out with Herbert Reppin, 25, brother of the condemned youth.

Walter Reppin is under sentence to be executed in the state's new lethal gas chamber sometime this week for the killing last August of Vincent Regan, Colorado Springs taxicab driver. He was sentenced after he pleaded guilty to first-degree murder.

"Our principal contention," Hornbein said, "will be that it is a settled rule of law, well substantiated, that a minor is not permitted to admit anything which would jeopardize his property."

"It should follow then that it is not proper that he be permitted to plead away his life."

Rosner said the motion would also cite a letter written by Cyrus W. Dolph, Colorado Springs attorney, who was assigned to Reppin's case, in which he said he felt he had made a mistake in advising Reppin to plead guilty.

Victor McLaglen Is Not Drowned In Coast Flood

Report Untrue That Famous Movie Comedian Was Drowned In Flood Waters

(International News Service)

LA CRESCENTA, Cal., Jan. 3.—Victor McLaglen, movie actor, Tuesday toiled without rest wading a shovel and pick in an effort to save the flowers and shrubbery on the La Crescenta estate in the path of a mountain torrent released by flood rains.

Reports McLaglen was missing had arisen from the fact he had been away climbing up and down the hills near his estate, erecting small dams and diverting swollen streams.

Considerable damage was done to the grounds of the McLaglen place. Flowers were uprooted and huge boulders deposited on the lawn. One of McLaglen's automobiles was almost buried by the silt and mud.
